ANNUAL IOWA PICNIC

IOWANS IN CALIFORNIA WILL HEAR GOV. HARDING AT BIG SUMMER PICNIC

The Iowans in Southern California are looking forward with unusual interest to the great annual summer picnic, as they are to have as their guest of honor and speaker of the day, Governor William L. Harding of their old home state.

The Iowa Association of Southern California holds each year three popular reunions: the mammoth winter picnic February 22nd in Eastlake Park, Los Angeles, the summer outing the second Saturday in August in Bixby Park, Long Beach, the "Queen City of the Beaches," and the Admission Day Dinner December 28th, Iowa's Birthday. The attendance at the summer outing has for several years been about 25,000 and with Governor Harding's presence even more are expected.

For these reunions the Hawkeyes rally from all over Southern California and the northern part of the state is well represented also. It is a rare opportunity for these Iowans to meet and to greet the old home friends, and there are many very pathetic and touching reunions among those who perhaps have been separated from ten to even fifty or sixty years.

This will be an all-day gathering with basket picnic dinners at the noon hour. Coffee will be provided by the Association. The program will commence about two o'clock, presided over by the president of the Association, Judge Frank R. Willis of the Superior Court of Los Angeles County.

There will be patriotic songs and brief addresses in addition to the governor's speech. This will be the first time in the history of the Iowa Association that it has had the privilege of having the governor of the home state as its guest, and every effort will be made to give him a royal welcome.

There will be flags and banners, bunting and badges, patriotism and enthusiasm, picnic dinners and happy greetings. Iowans who are anywhere in the west should try to reach Los Angeles and Long Beach for that day and enjoy the welcome they will receive. Governor Harding and all the Iowans still in the magnicent Hawkeye commonwealth may rest assured that the California Iowans never forget the old home and recall it with loving loyal pride. So fellow Iowans, meet us in Bixby Park, Long Beach, twenty miles out of Los Angeles, on the 11th day of August, 1917, for a happy, jolly day with old friends.

The temporary headquarters of the officers of the Iowa Association will be at Hotel Schuyler, 117 West Ocean avenue, Long Beach. All Iowans invited to meet them there. Inquiries addressed to the secretary of The Iowa Association of Southern California, C. H. Parsons, California Savings Bank, Los Angeles, will receive prompt attention.

THE RUSSIAN BOOTH, ALLIES' FIESTA

Mrs. Eugene Murman, wife of the Russian artist, 240 South Central avenue, will have charge of the Russian booth. She and her assistants will wear Russian costumes. They will serve Russian tea from a Russian samovar. Mrs. Murman has a tea secret which will give a delightful surprise to all who taste that nectar of the gods.

A Russian in native costume will play weird music on a peculiar Russian instrument, and everything pertaining to that booth will be distinctly Russian. Will not every Russian in Glendale give or do something to help make the Russian booth an honor to that great nation?

The Allies' Fiesta meeting at the Chamber of Commerce last night was a success.

Canada needs help to make her booth what the Canadian booth ought to be. It ought to rival that of the United States. If it does, Canadians will need to wake up. "Dinna ye hear the slogan?"

NEW RELIABLES

The Reliable Garage, located at the corner of Brand boulevard and Colorado street, which has been operating under the management of E. R. P. Grimes, has changed hands and is now under the management of Booth & Gregg, the members of the new firm being J. L. Booth and E. D. Gregg. These gentlemen are experienced automobile mechanics and are no strangers to citizens of Glendale.

GARDEN PARTY

BRILLIANT SOCIAL AFFAIR TONIGHT FOR Y. M. C. A. WAR WORK

Glendale society will gather in large numbers to-night at 101 Orange street, the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. John Robert White, where the Tuesday Afternoon club is sponsoring a garden party in aid of the Y. M. C. A. War Work fund. A long list of patrons and patronesses are lending their support and all indications are that this will be a very brilliant social affair.

Miss Zillah Withrow, reader and interpretative dancer, known widely for her grace and talent, is among the entertainers secured for the evening. Misses Alberta and Lorene Davis, mellophone and fluegel horn artists of exceptional merit, will also be present and assist in entertaining the guests of the evening.

Other features have been arranged that will make this garden party one long to be remembered as a society event as well as a most successful benefit.

AN UNUSUAL STREET NOTICE

Outside the Chamber of Commerce on Broadway there is a sign which has attracted our attention. Doubtless it has been seen by many passing Glendalians, but some of our readers may not have read it and its message is passed on here for their benefit:

HELP WANTED—QUICK!

4 Messenger Boys with wheels for temporary part-time service.

10 Young Ladies to send and receive phone messages this week.

3 Live-wire Assistants to help run a "big job," culminating Saturday next.

3 or more Automobiles (with drivers) to help save time and strength—for short periods and occasionally.

FOR THE RED CROSS AND THE BRITISH AMBULANCE
INQUIRE WITHIN SOON!

This is an attempt, we are informed, to secure additional help in finishing the arduous work of staging the Great Allies Fiesta to be held next Saturday afternoon and evening at La Ramada Park. It is likely that there still will be work for some willing hands to do when this notice is read, and those who can assist in any capacity and for a long or short period should call at the Chamber of Commerce rooms or phone (Glendale 249J or Home Blue 258). Miss Ina Whitaker, the secretary of the British Ambulance in Glendale, is responsible for the planning and consummating of this great Fiesta and will be glad to have as much help as possible.

ASKS INFORMATION

Editor News:

We have been advised by various magazines and newspapers to try alfalfa meal or flour. I am not sure which. I have an idea it is to be used with wheat but ask for information. I would also like to know where it is to be obtained.

As regards a meatless day once a week, it doesn't look good to me. Why not a wheatless meal a day? Corn is too heating for hot days and costs more than wheat, and many housewives do not know how to prepare it. Buckwheat is too expensive. Why doesn't some one who knows and has the knack of teaching, help in this way? It is also a question whether we will find the alfalfa products cheaper than wheat. I am asking for information. Will somebody please answer and oblige.

MRS. FAIRCHILD.

FREE FOR THE FREE

The columns of the Evening News are free for all announcements and notices of reasonable length giving publicity to entertainments and demonstrations that are free to the public. The management of the Evening News aims to be very fair on this question of free publicity. You charge, we charge, is the rule by which we are governed. Since the war excitement began three months ago, newspapers have been asked to publish many announcements that ordinarily would be charged for.

PAYING SUBSCRIPTION ONE YEAR

In response to statements sent out to Evening News subscribers it has become very common for us to receive a check for $4, a full year's subscription, many of the remittances covering time one year in advance of the present. This plan of yearly payment of subscriptions greatly reduces the clerical work in the office.

FIGHT HOOKWORM IN BRAZIL

AMERICAN PHYSICIANS HAVE BEEN GIVEN FREE HAND TO WAGE WAR ON DISEASE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 17.—Through the efforts of Dr. Charles Seidl, Director of the Public Health Dept., and Drs. Lewis Wendell Hackett and George Stone of the Rockefeller Foundation, the government has given the American institution free hand to wage a campaign on the "hook worm" in the interior of Brazil.

The percentage of inhabitants of the outlying districts afflicted with this disease is high, according to Health Department officials.

Creditable work has already been done by the American physicians and it is believed the proposed campaign will be of inestimable value in the stimulation of agricultural enterprise.

CURRENT TOPICS

PROGRESS ON ELKS' BUILDING—ALEX MITCHELL HAS COPY OF GLENDALE ENCINAL

Kent & Son, contractors, are making rapid progress on the new $40,000 Elks' building on Colorado street near Brand boulevard. The excavating has been completed and the concrete foundation walls are being built. An immense quantity of earth has been removed from the site of the building and this earth was hauled to low nearby lots. A large quantity of it was placed on the Colorado street school grounds and some was placed on the block facing Louise street between Broadway and Fifth street.

INTERESTING OLD PAPER

Alex Mitchell of Kenneth Road has in his possession a very interesting and valuable document in the form of a copy of the Glendale Encinal of the date of April 11, 1889. This is No. 41, Vol. II of the first newspaper ever published in Glendale, the publisher being William Galer, father of C. E. Galer, who is now manager of the California Ink Co. in Los Angeles. Many of the names mentioned are strange to our ears, but some have a familiar ring, as Miss R. M. Sherer, W. C. B. Richardson, B. F. Patterson, Frederick Baker, etc. Announcement is made that Capt. Cross hopes to have the motor line completed to Verdugo Park by April 25.

The subscription price of this neatly printed little weekly paper was $2.00 per year and $1.00 for six months. The weekly produce market quoted prices as follows: Butter, fresh roll fancy, 32½-35 cents; lard per lb. 10 cents; eggs, fresh, 28c; potatoes per cental, $1.50; beef, American dressed, 6c; veal, large, 9c; small 10c; pork 9c; mutton 5-7c.

GLENDALE'S WATER FOUNTAINS

Glendale has two very popular drinking resorts at present—one at the corner of Brand boulevard near Broadway, in front of the Pacific Electric station, and one on Broadway near the City Hall. These two fountains are supplied with ice cold water which is very refreshing during this hot season. Hundreds of people drink at these fountains every day and many are the complimentary remarks made concerning them. The fountains were installed by the city and are maintained at the city's expense, but their existence is largely due to the untiring efforts of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce.

OBITUARY OF MISS DONICHY

Mary Margaret Donichy was born in Dayton, Iowa, December 17, 1885, and spent her girlhood in Iowa and Illinois. She joined the Presbyterian Church in Morrison, Illinois, at the age of sixteen. She was out of school three years between high school and college. She graduated with honors from Knox College, Galesburg, Ill., in 1911. Miss Donichy taught in the Galesburg schools for three years and came to the Glendale Union High School in February, 1915. Miss Donichy was granted leave of absence in February, 1917, for what proved to be her last illness. Practically little suffering attended her last illness. Saturday was the happiest day she had for months and at about five o'clock she passed away.

Her months of illness have been lovingly ministered to by her sister and brother, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Papineau, whose home has been hers for three years, also by her mother, Mrs. I. H. Donichy, who came from Chicago four months ago, and another devoted teacher-friend, Miss Anne E. Edwards, who came on leave of absence from Los Angeles schools to do her work in Glendale Union High Shcool. Her father and two brothers and one sister reside in Chicago.

The funeral Monday afternoon was largely attended by teachers, students and friends who came to show their esteem and affection.

Dr. A. W. McConnell, assistant pastor of Immanuel Presbyterian Church, Los Angeles, a former pastor, was the officiating clergyman. The pall-bearers were high school students: Hollis Moyse, Calvin Butler, Wm. Taylor, Herman and Derrick Payne, and Roscoe Puffer. Beautiful floral offerings were sent by the Board of Trustees, the faculty and senior class of the Glendale Union High School.

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair tonight and Wednesday. Westerly winds.

FREE PUBLICITY

HALF BILLION DOLLAR ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN GIVEN LIBERTY LOAN

WASHINGTON, July 17.—More than $500,000,000 worth of free advertising was given to the United States government in its campaign to float the Liberty Loan, according to estimates made by Treasury officials. This does not include the hundreds of millions of dollars worth of space given in small country newspapers which never reached the attention of the government.

Whole newspaper pages, moving pictures, millions of posters, sign boards, hand dodgers, paper bombs, and hundreds of other means of bringing the bonds to the public were donated to the government by patriotic citizens.

The use of the editorial and advertising pages of 273 technical papers was donated; trade journals threw open their columns. Boy Scouts spent weeks in folding and mailing 4,600,000 folders printed at the Government Printing Office.

Thirty-six different languages were represented in the hundreds of foreign language papers which came to the assistance of the government.

Almost 2,000,000 large posters were distributed in all parts of the country, free of charge. The number of posters distributed by local committees for local use would more than double the above number.

More than 1,000,000 copies of Secretary McAdoo's Liberty Loan speeches and 2,500,000 circulars describing the loan were mailed from Washington, and distributed free. Almost 500,000 Liberty Loan primers were distributed free to the government.

Business firms, corporations, chambers of commerce, schools, private individuals, and every bureau of the government responded to the plea of the government to advertise the bonds on their stationery, and the slogan "Buy a Liberty Loan Bond" was almost as common during the campaign as a postage stamp.

In spite of the hundreds of millions of dollars of free advertising it is estimated that the total bill of the government for floating the loan will run over two or three million dollars.

A BEAUTY CONTEST

Among many big things planned for the Great Allies Fiesta to be held at La Ramada Park next Saturday afternoon and evening, is a sure-enough beauty contest!

It is hoped that Glendale's most beautiful young lady will serve as "Queen of the Carnival." Now the selection of this most beautiful person is to be left to the good judgment of our local populace, and nominees may be entered at the Chamber of Commerce by wellwishers in person or by telephone (Glendale 249J or Home Blue 258).

The idea is this: Send in the name of your most beautiful young lady friend. This is vote number one. Then let each wellwisher vote (or nominate) as they desire and the one getting the most votes is "the queen."

This contest is under the direction of Mr. Philip Haman, who will see that fair play is given, that there is no double voting (!) and that the scheme draws interest and attention to the Fiesta next Saturday.

Phone your vote to-day! It costs nothing!!

DELIGHTFUL TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Sanford of Sycamore canyon returned Sunday from a delightful three weeks' trip in the North. Going by the boat Rose City, they visited San Francisco and the adjoining cities of Oakland and Berkeley. From there they went to Sacramento, visiting at Rockland, Auburn and spending some time with their daughter, Mrs. F. H. Herberger, at Roseville. Mr. Sanford spent several days with his sister at Loomis. The trip home was made on the Beaver. Mr. and Mrs. Sanford were accompanied home by their granddaughter, Miss Margaret Herberger, who will spend her vacation here.

MRS. PADELFORD RETURNS

Mrs. J. Fred Padelford of 915 Fairview avenue has rteurned from an extended six months stay in the East. Mrs. Padelford was called to her old home in Gloucester, Mass., in January on account of the serious illness of her mother, who passed away in April. Mrs. Padelford is glad to be in sunny California again and she has a host of friends who are welcoming her home to Glendale.

SELLING BELOW COST

Whenever it becomes necessary for a firm or firms to sell merchandise below cost, there is an injustice being done to some one. Merchandise cannot be purchased at a net price of $1.00 and sold for 90 cents without someone sustaining a financial loss. It is true that clearance sales are conducted upon the plan of selling merchandise at less than cost, but in most instances the articles sold at such sales are out of season and the dealer is ahead to sell them at any prices rather than carry them over to the next season. However, it does not pay to sell staple articles for less than cost, and the merchant who continues to do it is not conducting business upon business principles.

"EFFEMINATE" WEST

Eight states have now filled their quota of volunteers for army service. They are Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Montana, Nevada, Utah and Wyoming. Other states of this region are recruiting rapidly, but the Atlantic states still lag behind.

A demonstration of this kind ought to put an end to the nauseating nonsense which has filled the Eastern dailies about the effeminacy and cowardice of the Westerners. Because the West was doubtful of the wisdom of entering the European war it has had to submit to scorn, abuse, ridicule and contempt. Now when it comes to action the situation is reversed. The states that were jeered at as under "petticoat government" proved to be the most ready to answer to the call of the country. All the eight states on the roll of honor are equal suffrage states. The same is shown in Canada, where the provinces that are chivalrous enough to be just to the weaker sex are sending the largest proportion of volunteers to France. Before the war only two parts of the British empire had established universal training and these were the two where the women voted. "The Wyoming idea" of military training in high schools is now being advocated in the East, and Wyoming was the first state in the world to grant woman suffrage. The familiar charge that equal suffrage makes squaws of the men is as manifestly false as the charge that it makes amazons of the women.

It would be well if the East could be made to understand that one reason why the West is reluctant to enter a war is because it feels that it will have to do more than its fair share. The common saying used to be: "The East is always getting the United States into trouble and then leaving it to the West to do the fighting." If this assertion is challenged, the Westerner would point to the Civil war, when the Western states more than filled their quota by volunteering while eastern rioters were resisting the draft, and to the Spanish war, when the young men of the West answered with enthusiasm the call to the colors, while in New York City, which boasted of having "made the war," two regiments of the national guard refused to serve.

However exaggerated this feeling is, however unwarranted it may be, it nevertheless exists, and did Easterners refuse to recognize it they will have to reckon with it. If the Eastern newspapers keep up their customary jibes at the West during the war the rapidly widening breach between the two sections will seriously impair the unity of effort of the United States.—New York Independent.

SERVICES ABSOLUTELY FREE

Many lines of business have been complimented for the loyal work they have done in aiding the government in its great plan of preparedness.

Behind this all stands one industry, without which, little could be accomplished.

The newspapers have made it possible to spread broadcast over our land in a single day the appeals of the government to its citizens in all walks of life.

The newspapers alone make it possible to explain to the nation the plans which permitted the registration of 10,000,000 names in a single day.

On the newspapers fell the burden of advising the public of the details of the Liberty Bonds and educating the citizens to purchase these securities.

On the newspapers fell the work of informing the people of the Red Cross plans to raise $100,000,000 in the United States.

All of this work is done freely, cheerfully and without pay.

Publishers are probably the only class of men who as a whole are furnishing their services free to the government.

Is there any other line of business exhibiting the same class of patriotism. Now is the time to give the publisher credit and not after he is dead.—The Manufacturer.

Every man favors honest government as long as it doesn't interfere with his interests.

We didn't start this war, but by darn we're going to end it.

The Glendale Evening News should be delivered at your home by the carrier not later than 4:30 p. m. every day except Sunday, and usually much earlier than that time. Subscribers who have not received their paper at 4:30 o'clock, should notify the office by phone: Glendale 132, Home 2401.

CALIFORNIA EDUCATIONAL CENTER

The East has discovered California as a center of new educational ideas, as well as a new pivotal state in a political sense. The State Board of Education has granted Will C. Wood, commissioner of secondary education a leave of absence from July 1, 1917, to August 1, 1917, to permit him to accept an invitation to deliver a course of lectures before the summer session of the Teachers' College of Columbia University, and he is now east performing this important educational service. Eastern educators want to know something about what has come to be known as the "California system of secondary education." They have become convinced that we know something new and valuable out here and they want to hear about it.

Mr. Wood's audiences are composed largely of teachers and city and county school superintendents, and he is lecturing on secondary educational methods, as successfully applied to the organization, administration and financing of California high schools.

Mr. Woods is peculiarly fitted to carry this educational message from California to the east, because it was his constructive suggestions to the State Board of Education in regard to secondary schools which resulted in the passage of the present laws. As secondary school commissioner, he has had active and intimate relation with the working out of these new laws, and as he is an able, forceful speaker, he will be able to convey his message to his auditors in an interesting and convincing manner.

HARVESTING AND CONSERVATION

The Department of Agriculture estimates that fully 50 per cent. of all the vegetables and fruit grown in America never reaches the consumer. It is left to rot on the ground and trees, or allowed to spoil because of lack of shipping and marketing facilities. In addition, the average man consumes 25 per cent. more food than he needs, and one-third of the American households waste another 25 per cent of what they buy. Extravagance in war-time is distinctly unpatriotic, and has got to stop. If our business is organized on the basis of allowing 50 per cent. of our perishable food products to go to waste before reaching the consumer, who eats one-fourth more than he needs, and wastes a prohibitive amount in addition, it is high time that our business was reorganized, and this war may be a blessing in disguise. The 1917 crop is a war crop and we cannot harvest it in our Sunday clothes.

Let the producer begin now and see how many apples, potatoes, etc., he will harvest and exactly what he is going to do with them. Include everything small and large, from windfalls to A-1 fruit and vegetables. Study how the most perishable part can be used in from 3 to 5 weeks; a part preserved and used in 3 to 5 months; and the remainder scientifically preserved for use (including export) in 6 to 18 months. Make plans to harvest the crop at the best stage, without waste or loss in transportation to market. Repair cribs and bins in advance of harvest, and provide cellars and storage places that can be easily kept at the right temperature. Protect harvested products against insect damage, and see that nothing heats, molds or decays for lack of care and proper storage conditions. Sell your crop to the best advantage. See that everything gets to the consumer. Market all food you do not use. Can, preserve, or dry all perishable foods you do not market.

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST FIRE

Largely through lack of ordinary care, millions of dollars worth of vegetable products are yearly destroyed by fire, in forest, in field and in storage. Extraordinary care should be used to protect crops either standing or harvested, as well as standing wood and timber, all of which are enormous assets for the war and cannot be replaced. A single forest fire or a burning grain elevator may take an army corps out of the field. Ripe crops and dry forests burn like tinder, and the man who starts a fire, or fails to give warning and exhausts every means to control it, is party to a national crime. One man in an idle moment may undo the work of a thousand for a year, and the resulting loss can only be computed in units of fleets, and armies, and defeats instead of victories.

WESTERN STATES PRESS OPINIONS

From the Manufacturer and Industrial News Bureau

Deseret, Salt, Lake, News: Patriotism, common sense and hatred of autocratic methods combined to defeat the city $1,500,000 bond issue.

Cascade, Mont., Courier: Observation of industrial activities in Montana today brings convincingly home truth that fuel famine will result if remedial measures are not applied—at once.

Seattle Post-Intelligencer: The exemption from the federal prohibition bill of beer and wine presumably is to take care of the numerous launchings which the United States expects to have shortly.

Helena Independent: The proposed newspaper taxes raise postal rates and tax all profits above $4,000. There will be mighty few profit totals above that figure, once postage is raised.

Central Point, Ore., Herald: The sugar beet industry desire to build a new factory in the immediate vicinity of Central Point. This year the sugar beet acreage is much larger than last year.

Butte Miner: President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor has taken a loyal stand ever since the United States entered the present world conflict, by appealing to the members of labor organizations to show their patriotism by not taking advantage of the situation to demand unjust increases in wage scales.

Anacortes American: With fishermen offered eight cents a pound for sockeye salmon during the coming season, there will be little grounds to abuse the so-called "fish trust" of Puget Sound. At the price several thousand down-trodden purse seiners and gill netters will be in the same class as the penniless munition maker at the end of the season.

Belgrade, Mont., Journal: This is no time to waste public moneys in a fruitless manner. Let our public officials see to it that they get "value received" for every dollar of the taxpayers' money they authorize the expenditure of.

SACRAMENTO, July 17.—News of the attack by a German submarine on a French liner carrying a contingent of the ambulance corps made up of University of California students, bound for France, and the subsequent sinking of the U-boat by French gunners aboard the liner, is graphically related in a letter received by A. M. Seymour, prominent local attorney, from his son, Harry Seymour, a member of the ambulance corps. Seymour told of the sailing of the liner from an Atlantic port and of the premonition of one of the student members of the corps that the ship was going to be torpedoed. Soon after the student expressed his "hunch" of a submarine attack, Seymour said in his letter, a woman on deck screamed that she had seen the periscope of a U-boat. Rushing to the deck from the mess room where they were eating, the students sighted the submarine some distance off from the ship and immediately the French gunners opened fire on the undersea craft. During the engagement the submarine fired a torpedo which, Seymour said, missed the stern of the ship by only three feet. The French gunners continued their fire and finally one of the shots struck the frail U-boat and it disappeared.

The versatility of cattle is being demonstrated by a farmer in West Brookfield, Massachusetts, who is said to secure entertainment as well as profit from his Guernsey herd. The farmer has taught his herd to do various tricks, such as rolling a barrel around the barnyard and the like, and he has a special wooden platform whereon the cattle have their particular places and performances.

FLOCKING TO WASHINGTON

The papers state that crazy people are flocking to Washington to tell the government how to conduct or to end the war.

Not all of them flock thither. Some, lacking carfare, remain at home and do active work as pacifists.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NOTES

One of the largest audiences in the history of the church gathered last Sabbath evening, filling not only the church proper, but overflowing into the Sunday School room. Assisting the pastor in the service were Rev. F. A. Field and Rev. S. T. Montgomery of Los Angeles. The pastor will continue the series of practical sermons on "The King in His Beauty."

This Tuesday evening at 7:30 will occur a business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society, at the church. Every member of the society is expected. Among other items of business, the pastor will present a most important matter.

The reception to new members on Thursday evening, July 19, will be of unusual interest. The special committee are planning for a large attendance.

Regular services will continue during the entire summer. The pastor does not expect to be away, and is planning to preach every Sunday, both morning and evening.

The popular prayer meeting talks by the pastor will be continued tomorrow evening, 7:30. Subject, "Things That Differ."

PRETTY GIRLS

The Glendale Chamber of Commerce window flaunts a banner with this strange device.

"Wanted—All Pretty Girls in Glendale."

Surely a modest request, even for a Chamber of Commerce.

Another is more personal:

"Are You a Pretty Girl? If so, give or send your name to the Allies Fiesta, La Ramada Park, July 21."

The object is to have the prettiest girl in Glendale crowned "Queen of the July." ("May" would be a bit out of date.) All you have to do, being a privileged beauty, is to send in your name and—no, on second thought, there should be no limit as to the number of summers you "have came and went—drawin' the attractions of men."

Then your friends and admirers do the rest. They each have the right to one vote (no charge for voting). The girl who is prettiest by majority will be Queen of Beauty at the Allies' Fiesta.

Send or give your name to the General Manager, Miss Ina Whitaker, care the British Ambulance Society, next door to Bank of Glendale, Broadway and Glendale avenue, or to the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, or direct to her home, 208 West Ninth street, Glendale, Sunset Phone 586J. Do your beauty bit for the sake of the cause. "Do It Now."

PACKER IN BOSTON

POTATOES

Dispatches tell of a man whose land yielded 125 bushels of potatoes to the acre.

Don't people know how to grow potatoes any more? As a kid in the early teens I farmed a corner of the old homestead and raised 400 bushels to the acre.

"Father," said the minister's son, "my teacher says that 'collect' and 'congregate' mean the same thing. Do they?"

"Perhaps they do, my son," said the venerable clergyman; "but you may tell your teacher that there is a vast difference between a congregation and a collection."

UNRELIABLE LANDMARKS

In the southwestern part of the Colorado Desert there is a remarkable phenomenon known as "Superstitious Mountain." It is said that in the old days before the advent of the railroad, travelers journeying along the trail between Yuma and Los Angeles came, in time, to regard it with great awe because of its eccentric behavior. Ignorant Mexicans and Indians also looked upon it with terror, and declared that certain evil spirits had taken up their habitation upon its dreary slopes.

And it is not strange that Superstitious Mountain should have inspired dread as well as curiosity in the breasts of these early explorers, for it never presented the same appearance for any great length of time. A month, two weeks, or even a few days, often witnessed a complete change in its contour and shape. As a consequence, the early plainsmen soon came to regard it with deep suspicion. As a landmark it proved itself undeserving of confidence. They could not safely use it as a guide either to themselves or to direct their friends upon the trail, for it did not assume one form long enough to admit of a definite description. It was apt to confuse them, as much as the false light confuses the sailor at sea. Yet there is no doubt that before the unreliable character of the mountain was fully established, many had been led astray by it. It is now know that the explanation of its mystifying behavior is found in the fact that the mountain is made up largely of vast piles of sand which the strong winds shift from one spot to another, thus constantly throwing out new domes, pinnacles, peaks, and other ragged shapes that alter its entire form and aspect.

FACTS ABOUT WHEAT

The varieties of wheat are numerous. All varieties, including Spelt, belong to the genus triticum. The different wheats differ in size, shape and color of the kernels and composition of the grain. Some have long kernels and some short, some have a thick bran, some thin. In color they are white, red, amber, and brown. Some are soft and starchy, others hard and flinty. Some are sown in the fall, others in the spring. Most of them have but a single head, but some have branched heads. They differ in their chemical composition, some containing a greater proportion of starch, others a greater proportion of gluten; and some are hardier than others, to endure the winters and are more suitable for certain localities on that account. The whole profit on wheat production depends on raising a variety that is suitable for the soil and climate of the region where it is produced.

The tendency of all varieties of wheat is to deteriorate, or "run out," and the tendency in some varieties is greater than others. Science and reason both assert that this need not be the case, if the same conditions and the same painstaking that made them superior in the first place are kept up. As the stock breeder can only maintain the excellence of his herd by breeding from the best, so the wheat farmer can only maintain the high quality of his wheat by careful selection of the best for seed. The selection of the best seed for sowing has always been the great mthod of improving the grains, and has been recommended from the earliest times. Columella, Celsus, Vergil, and other ancient writers speak of it, and numerous successful experiments in modern times are recorded.

Frederick Hallet, of Brighton, Engiand, began with a single head of wheat chosen irrespective of size and vigor from a common variety. The head was four and three-eighths inches long, and contained forty-seven grains, which were planted in rows twelve inches apart each way. At harvest the best head was selected, and sown as before. The plan was followed for four years. At the end of the fourth year the best plant produced fifty-two heads and the best head was eight and three-eighths inches long, and contained one hundred and twenty-three grains. This was the origin of "pedigree wheat."

The Fultz wheat was originated by a mechanic of that name in Pennsylvania, who, observing an uncommonly long head of wheat in a neighbor's field, took it home and sowed it in his garden, and, like Frederick Hallet, continued to sow the kernels from the longest heads containing the most and plumpest kernels for a number of years, until he obtained a variety that became famous.

New and valuable varieties of wheat have been obtained by planting "sprouts," or the grain from plants differing from their fellows greatly in size and vigor.

Darwin says the Fenton wheat was found growing on a pile of detritus or rubbish, in a quarry in England. The Chidham wheat originated from a head found growing in a hedge in the same country. The Clawson wheat originated from a stalk found growing by a stump in the State of New York.—Indiana Farmer.

Some men provide so bountifully for their wives and children that they fail to give any consideration to their widows and orphans.

The World Over

Things are the same. People judge a man by his appearance. There is a reason for this. His first appearance creates a definite impression, his better qualities being recognized later. Why not have a good appearance in your favor?

TO COOK BEETS QUICKLY

Select young tender beets and peel them thinly or rub off skin. Cut in half-inch slices or even thinner. Cut these slices in dice and put just enough water over them to cover and about an inch above. Bring to boiling as quickly as possible and keep at low bubbling point until tender, which should be in about fifteen minutes or less.

Drain off the liquid and return it to the fire. Let it boil until only a little remains.

It may be carameled if so liked, then thinned a little. This requires great care, however, as it so easily scorches.

In either case do not thicken the juice but add butter, salt, and, if acid is relished, add lemon juice or vinegar.—Rural World.

A STORY OF LAFAYETTE

During Lafayette's visit to America, in 1824, he was everywhere honored. Once, when passing through the village where the entire population turned out, he saw an old soldier in the Continental uniform. The veteran drew himself up in the stiff fashion of the old-time drill and gave the military salute. As Lafayette made the return signal, tears started to his eyes. The tattered uniform, the ancient flintlock, the silver-haired soldier, even older than himself, recalled the dear past.

"Do you know me?" asked the soldier.

"No, I cannot say that I do," was the frank reply.

"Do you remember the frosts and snows of Valley Forge?"

"I shall never forget them," answered Lafayette.

"One bitter night, General, you were going the rounds of Valley Forge. You came upon a sentry in thin clothing and without stockings. He was slowly freezing to death. You took his gun, saying, 'Go to my hut. There you will find stockings, a blanket and a fire. After warming yourself bring the blanket to me. Meanwhile I will keep guard.'

"The soldier obeyed. When he returned to his post, you, General Lafayette, cut the blanket in two. One half you kept; the other you presented to the sentry. Here, General, is one half of that blanket, for I am the sentry whose life you saved."—Selected.

HANDICAPPED

Recently a New York paper attacked at least one California city most savagely, but must have been disappointed at results.

Nobody out this way reads the paper in question, and state papers have declined to give the attack publicity.

No use to be worried over a New York opinion anyhow.

PREPAREDNESS

"What was the date of Columbus's discovery of America?" an examiner asked.

"Fourteen ninety-two," the bright boy replied instantly.

"Right," said the examiner. "And why was that date important for you to remember?"

"Because I knew you would be sure to ask it," the bright boy said. —New York Times.

NO PARADES

Secretary Baker says there will be no parading of troops before they sail, and for this one commentator charges him with having "pulled a boner."

Fine idea it would be to advertise the imminent departure of troops in a land infested with spies, now, wouldn't it? ?

A boner was pulled, all right, but by the commentator.

A French physician, Dr. Delbet, has compounded a solution of magnesium chloride, salt, and caustic soda, which is antiseptic without being toxic or irritating to the cellular tissues of the body. This will be of particular value for wounds received in battle and trenches, where the injury is apt to become seriously infected.

A boy walked into a merchant's office the other day in search of a situation. After being put through a catechism by the merchant, he was asked, "Well, my lad, what is your motto?"

"Same as yours sir," he replied; "same as you have on your door—'Push.'"

He was engaged.

At a recent meeting of the American Chemical Society a method for preventing bread from becoming stale was presented. The process surely is simple enough. It consists in allowing the hot loaf to cool in an atmosphere of carbon dioxide, freshly prepared by fermentation. Bread thus treated is said to remain fresh for several weeks.

The June world is ablaze with roses, but if it is thorns for which one is looking, he can find enough to scratch and fret him.

One's good opinion of himself is often worth most when it is securely locked up, and the locker key thrown deep into the river of forgetfulness.

Hope is a rope lifting from the depths, and a ladder rising to the heights.

THE JITNEY QUESTION

The Railroad Commission on Friday determined to institute an investigation into the rates, rules and regulations of the jitney and auto truck lines subject to its jurisdiction. A hearing in this matter will be held before the commission en banc at Los Angeles on July 25, at 10 a. m. A second hearing will be held at San Francisco on Wednesday, August 8, also at 10 a. m.

It is the purpose of the commission at these hearings to secure information and suggestions from the auto bus men and all interested parties, upon which the commission may formulate rules for the operation of these carriers. These rules, when established, will cover such matters as quality of service, time schedules, filing of bonds, etc. In order that all parties may be represented, the commission has sent notices to all jitneys and auto truck operators subject to its jurisdiction, and to all railroads, boards of supervisors and city councils.

The jitney bus and auto truck lines subject to the commission's jurisdiction are defined in chapter 213 of the laws of 1917 as being "every corporation or person, their lessees, trustees, receivers, or trustees appointed by any court whatsoever, owning, controlling, operating or managing any automobile, jitney bus, auto truck, stage or auto stage used in the transportation of persons or property as a common carrier for compensation over any public highway in this state between fixed termini or over a regular route and not operating exclusively within the limits of an incorporated city or town or of a city and county."

DRY APRICOTS AT HOME

Apricots are going to waste all about you. No fruit grower or housewife should let one pound go to waste when the government is constantly sounding the alarm of famine. California is particularly fortunate in being the land of sunshine where fruit and vegetables may be dried to perfection out of doors.

"There has never been a time when drying was as vital as this year. The war makes food thrift imperative. The crops of foodstuffs will be unusually abundant because of the widespread planting of food gardens.

"Not less than 2,000,000 of these gardens are now thriving. Nature will yield more vegetables than the people can consume during the summer. To save the surplus is a national need. Because of the European situation this need becomes international as well.

"Drying is a process within the reach of every American household. It is simple, easy and sure. It involves little or no expense and comparatively little time. A housekeeper may conduct drying operations and entertain her afternoon tea guests at the same time.

"All she need to do is to make an occasional visit to her kitchen or her outdoor dryer to test the temperature to which the food is exposed. In this way she may provide for the winter needs of her household without sacrificing present enjoyment.

"Dried vegetables and fruits are as good as those which are fresh. The drying robs them of none of their flavor or food value. A big saving in the cost of living can be made by drying vegetables and fruits during the summer seasons."—Lankershim Laconic.

GIRLS ARE TO WEAR OVERALLS

Something is going into the summer girl's trunk this year that has never gone into it before," writes the fashion editor of the Woman's Home Companion. "Have you guessed already that 'it' is overalls, and that she has taken the hint from the busy, capable women in Europe who have been doing men's work since the war started?

"The American girl is a level-headed young person and when she is planning her clothes she considers carefully their appropriateness. That's why she is looking with favor this summer on the new overalls for women that have just been put upon the market.

"The shops are displaying them in cool durable materials selected purposely for summer wear. They come in percale and denim in solid colors, and in most attractive stripes, and also in the very durable khaki shade. They consist of an easy-to-get-into coat, and overalls, which are full enough to suggest in themselves that they will be donned not by mere man, but a very feminine young person."

WAR-TIME ECONOMY.

Temperance Reformer — And where are you taking that beer, my little girl?

Little Girl—'Ome to father, sir.

Temperance Reformer—But your father surely doesn't drink beer at tenpence a pint!

Little Girl—Oh, no, sir! 'E don't drink it; 'e only soaks 'is bread in it.—Passing Show.

"I believe," said the impatient man, as he put aside the telephone, "that I'll go fishing."

"Didn't know you cared for fishing."

"I don't ordinarily. But it's the only chance I have of finding myself at the end of a line that isn't busy."—Washington Star.

COUNTRY NEEDS MEN

The imperative demand for greater and more unselfish types of public men has been recognized by President Wilson in forming special boards and defense councils to help solve the greatest problems. He has called to his aid a small army of a thousand of the brainiest and biggest big business men of the nation—not all men of great wealth but all men of prominence and known in special lines—to supplement the work of the political leaders of all parties. These experts in business, banking, manufacturing, transportation, mining, wholesaleing, retailing, education, charity, farming, shipbuilding, etc., are all serving upon honor and without pay. They form the public-spirited praetorian guard of the national welfare. The illustrious example of the President has raised the conduct of the national government out of the low plane of politics into an atmosphere of patriotic duty and high-minded sacrifice.

Our country has come to a time in its history when it is going to need a stronger type of men and more of them. We are coming to a place where the country's great need is clean-hearted, whole-hearted and disinterested leadership in public affairs. Nation, state and cities have been served by too many who are decient in these characteristics. Too much alleged patriotism has been mere loyalty to a political machine for what they could get out of it. From president to governors and mayors down, too many have been willing to sacrifice any higher law of right to the interest of faction or party. The time has come when men who want to be leaders must learn to sacrifice something for ideals based on the common welfare.—The Manufacturer.

A LITERAL ANGLER

Down in Mississippi a party of gentlemen were organizing a camping expedition to a lake forty miles distant from the town where they lived. The chief spirit of the expedition was a United States senator. With others of the party he wrote out a list of the needed equipment—including plenty of bottled refreshments, corkscrews, cigars and chewing tobacco, three sets of chips, many decks of cards, a few items of provisions and a tent or two.

"Say," suggested one of the others when the schedule had been completed, "we forgot to ask Blank to go along with us. Why not telephone over to his house and invite him now? It's not too late."

"No, no," interposed the senator. "Don't do that. Blank would spoil everything. He's too blamed literal."

"What do you mean—literal?" inquired the first speaker.

"I mean just what I say," explained the senator. "Because this is going to be a fishing trip, Blank would want to sneak off from the game about once every so often and go fishing!"

NO NEWS TO-DAY

No news to-day, no death, no birth,
Nor accidents nor fire.
Who ever saw such perfect dearth
Of visitations dire?
No news to-day, the bright sun shines
On fruitful vine and tree;
No enemy, with base designs,
Attacks by land or sea.
"God sits on high, and all is well,"
But this excites no thrill.
The public wants to hear us tell
Of holocausts that kill.

Of war and murder, suicide;
Of vice in circles gay;
Of burglary or fratricide,
Of women lured away.
Of wrecks and cyclones, dynamite;
Of gory battlefields;
Where heroes perish in the fight,
And helpless nations yield.
No news to-day? Blest Providence
If "news" means only crimes.
God grant us more of "newsless' days
In these tumultuous times. E.H.S.

A STORY FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Several years ago a vessel in a fearful storm foundered on the Diamond Shoals. Her signals of distress were received and the Captain of the Life Saving Station got out the life boat. The storm grew worse every moment, and the wind, which was off shore, grew more violent. He ordered the crew to launch the boat, but they hesitated. One of them spoke: "Captain it's no use with that wind! We can launch the boat and reach the ship but we can never come back." There was silence for a moment; then the Captain with flashing eyes said, "We don't have to come back." They understood. They launched the boat, reached the wreck, took off all the survivors, and the wind changing a couple of points, after nine hours of hard rowing, they did come back. At the Life Saving Stations on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, whenever there are dangers to run, lives to save, the brief words of the Captain are repeated, "We don't have to come back."—The Royal Highlander.

CANNING POINTERS

Women of the nation are planning to can and dry food as never before.

In canning, specialize on nutritious foods and concentrate to small bulk by cooking down all vegetables high in water content.

Canned food will be needed next winter as it never has been needed before. Let your slogan be, therefore: Can all the food you can; dry the succulent foods which cannot be kept well otherwise.

Why not use the schools of the country as community canning centers two or three times a week? What better place could the people of the town or city have for meeting and furthering the work of conserving food?

It is difficult to can corn, peas, sweet potatoes and some other vegetables with the ordinary open-top home canner. Therefore, in purchasing a canning outfit, it is an advantage to get a steam-tight boiler, so as to be able to can all the vegetables as well as meats.—Rural World.

THE KID HAS GONE TO THE COLORS

The Kid has gone to the Colors
And we don't know what to say;
The Kid we have loved and cuddled
Stepped out for the Flag to-day.
We thought him a child, a baby,
With never a care at all,
But his country called him man-size
And the Kid has heard the call.

He paused to watch the recruiting
Where, fired by fife and drum,
He bowed his head to Old Glory,
And thought that it whispered "Come!"
The Kid, not being a slacker,
Stood forth with patriot-joy
To add his name to the roster—
And God, we're proud of the boy!

The Kid has gone to the Colors;
It seems but a little while
Since he drilled a schoolboy army
In a truly martial style.
But now he's a man, a soldier,
And we lend him listening ear,
For his heart is a heart all loyal,
Unscourged by the course of fear.

His dad, when he told him, shuddered,
His mother—God bless her!—cried;
Yet, blest with a mother-nature,
She wept with a mother-pride.
But he whose old shoulders straightened
Was Granddad—for memory ran
To years when he, too, a youngster,
Was changed by the Flag to a man!

—W. M. Herschell.

RESPONDING TO MALICE

When bitterness begins to speak
Of people that I know
I turn and gently say,
"I have not found them so."

When envy lifts its angry head
To snarl at friends of mine
I never let myself forget
That I have found them fine.

I won't believe a man is base
Or false, whoe'er he be,
Until the day that I may say
That he's been false to me.

—Edgar A. Guest.

A little woman, accompanied by a robust farmer, appeared at the railway station at a remote country town. "Will you please tell me if the three-fifteen train has gone yet?" she asked in apparent concern?

"Yes, twenty minutes ago," he replied.

"And when will the four-thirty be along, do you think?"

"Why, not for some time yet, of course."

"Are there any expresses before then?"

"No, not one."

"Any freight trains?"

"No."

"Nothing at all?"

"Nothing whatever."

"Are you quite sure?"

"Certainly."

"Then," said the timid woman, turning to her husband, "I think we'll cross the tracks, William."—Youth's Companion.

The Youth's Companion tells of a Georgia woman who, after moving to the city, sent for her old colored servant. The mammy arrived just as the lady was leaving town for a visit, and had barely time to be made acquainted with the city conveniences before she was left in charge. Two weeks later the lady returned and received this report: "I got along fine, Miss Flo'ence; had no trouble at all. And O! dat gas stove—my! dat's the best stove made. Why, do you know, Miss Flo'ence, dat fire you lighted ain't gone out yit!"

Mrs. R— was an extremely careful mother, and had repeatedly cautioned her six-year-old daughter against handling any object that might contain germs. One day the little girl came in and said:

"Mother, I am never going to play with my puppy any more, because he has germs on him."

"O, no!" replied her mother. "There are no germs on your puppy."

"Yes, there are," insisted the child. "I saw one hop."—The Ladies' World.

THINGS THAT COUNT

Not what we have, but what we use,
Not what we see, but what we choose—
These are the things that mar or bless
The sum of human happiness.

The things near by, not things afar,
Not what we seem, but what we are—
These are the things that make or break,
That give the heart its joy or ache.

Not what seems fair, but what is true,
Not what we dream, but good we do—
These are the things that shine like gems,
Like stars in fortune's diadems.

Not as we take, but as we give,
Not as we pray, but as we live—
These are the things that make for peace,
Both now and after time shall cease.

—Outlook.

There is no lack of shrewdness in the English peasants, says Mr. A. J. Swinburne, in Memories of a School Inspector, but their knowledge of the things beyond their own villages is often surprisingly small.

At the time when the struggle between Russia and Japan had reached its climax and become the absorbing topic of the whole world, a Suffolk laborer, off work, accosted a friend engaged in digging:

"Bad news from the war."

"Who's a-fightin', then?"

"Why, them Rooshans and Japanese."

"O, they're a-fightin', are they?" (Pausing from his work.)

"O, yes, they're fightin' like Billy-o!"

"Are they, though?"

"Yes, that they are."

"Well," after placidly scanning the horizon and resuming work, "they've got a nice day for it, anyhow."

Sixty years ago James Hill went into a big shipping office in St. Paul, and asked if they wanted a clerk. The answer was, "Got plenty of clerks, but we are shy on dock hands." An offer was made of seventy-five cents a day. He was taken where a packet was being loaded and told to hustle the freight aboard. He took off his coat and rolled up his sleeves, shouldered a box, and landed it on the ship. This seventy-five-cents-a-day boy had an income later of three dollars a minute. He was the man who opened up the great Northwest with railroads.—The Royal Highlander.

When ex-President Taft was Secretary of War he set out one afternoon for a baseball game, with two tickets in his pocket. He was in the habit of buying two seats so that he would have plenty of room. When he got to the grandstand he handed out the two tickets. The usher took in at a glance what they were for and led the way to the seats. When he reached them he paused.

"What's the trouble, young man?" said Mr. Taft.

"Sorry, Mr. Secretary," said the usher, "but if you sit in these two seats you're going to have some difficulty. They're on opposite sides of the aisle."

This message was handed to the local "cub" telegraph operator in Yates Center to be sent in: "Foundation under freight house needs attention at once." But he accidentally changed the "t" to an "I," and the office in St. Louis received this: "Found a lion under freight house; needs attention at once." The answer came back to Yates Center: "Feed the lion and notify the live stock department."—Kansas City Star.

"Spell 'dough,' Dick," directed a teacher of a little black pupil.

"D-o," said Dick promptly.

"No, that is not right," smiled the teacher. "Who can tell Dick how and why he is wrong?"

"He's wrong 'cause there's two kinds ob do," shrilled another youngster, "de do' what yo' shets an' de do what you eats—an' de do what you eats is writ widout de 'postrophe at de end."—The Continent.

Immigration which averaged about 100,000 a month for 1913-14 went down to 19,000 in February, 1917, and about half a million a year have emigrated from our country annually since the European war started. A million men are being taken for military purposes and another million required to supply them with munitions of war. Another million is to be raised next year and labor famine is liable to be followed by a food famine.

In the daily routine of life you ask of those with whom you come in contact both honesty and fairness of treatment.

More so, than ever, do you need such help during the sorrows of bereavement. Then, as at no other time, you ask and have a right to expect conscientious service—the kind "you" yourself would give were you able to do so.

You ask and expect an impressive service, free of needless expense, yet fitting the occasion.

In using Scovern-Letton-Frey Co. service either in our mortuary, at the church or in your own home, you will find all these requirements met—quietly, restfully and in good taste.

One of the bosses at the Baldwin Locomotive Works had to lay off an argumentative Irishman named Pat, so he saved discussion by putting the discharge in writing. The next day Pat was missing, but a week later the boss was passing through the shop and he saw him again at his lathe. Going up to the Irishman, he demanded fiercely, "Didn't you get my letter?"

"Yis sir, Oi did," said Pat.

"Did you read it?"

"Sure, sir, Oi read it inside and Oi read it outside," said Pat, "and on the inside yez said Oi was fired, and on the outside yez said, 'Return in five days to Baldwin Locomotive Works.'"
